

Know before you go

We want to ensure your pet's safety throughout their journey. We've put together this checklist to help make sure they're prepared for take-off.

Prior to booking

- ☐ Review all American Airlines Cargo acceptance policies and pet travel guidelines
- ☐ Confirm that your pet is acceptable for travel (dogs must be at least eight weeks old to travel domestically; dogs must be at least six months old to travel internationally, not a restricted breed and healthy enough to fly).
- ☐ Confirm the trip length is 12 hours or less
- ☐ Confirm that the temperature of every airport code in your pet's flight plan is between 45° F and 85° F (7° C and 29° C). If not, review guidelines for receiving an acclimation letter. Use the Facilities page to verify the hourly temperatures.
- ☐ Confirm your travel kennel is airline-approved and meets all guidelines and requirements, including that your pet is able to sit, stand and move around within its closed kennel without touching the sides. Here's how to measure your pet for the right kennel.

Note: If flying to the U.S., you must submit a CDC Import Form Receipt stating that the dog is traveling from a low-risk rabies-free country, and that the date on the form is within the allowable travel period. Dogs originating in a high-risk country, or dogs who have been in a high-risk country within the last six months, will be refused due to the current American Airlines Cargo embargo.

Once booked, prepare the documentation and other requirements

- ☐ Obtain a health and rabies certification:
 - For domestic pet travel, obtain a Health Certificate signed by a licensed veterinarian. The service date of the Health Certificate must be within ten (10) calendar days of the travel date.
 - For international pet travel, obtain a Health Certificate issued in English by a veterinarian with a valid license to practice veterinary medicine in the country of export. The service date of the Health Certificate must be within ten (10) calendar days of the travel date.
 - A Rabies Vaccination Certificate is not required by American Airlines Cargo. However, regulations vary by state. If the Rabies Vaccination Certificate is not included on your health certificate, please obtain a copy from your veterinarian.
- ☐ Request signature from veterinarian confirming compliance to breed restrictions
- ☐ If necessary, request an acclimation letter from your veterinarian
- ☐ If flying international, complete documentation as required by destination country or contact a pet shipper for assistance

On the day of flight, make final preparations

- ☐ Reconfirm that the temperature of every airport in your pet's flight plan is between 45° F and 85° F (7° C and 29° C) and if not, review guidelines for an acclimation letter
- ☐ Confirm the drop-off location, and then determine how early you should arrive.
- ☐ Ensure you bring all required documents and that they're signed by a licensed veterinarian:
 - Original and copy of the health certificate and rabies certificate (if not on the health certificate)
 - Breed verification form
 - Acclimation letter (if necessary)
 - Additional documents as required by the destination country (if necessary)
- ☐ Offer your pet a light meal and water within four hours prior to drop-off
 - Attach supplementary food on top of the kennel and approved food and water containers inside kennel, ensure that only acceptable items are placed inside kennel
- ☐ Each person dropping off and picking up your pet should bring two (2) forms of identification (one valid, government-issued photo ID and a second ID of any type with first and last name)

Need help? Don't hesitate to ask

For further questions, contact the American Airlines Cargo PetEmbark Desk at 1-800-227-4622 or PetEmbark@aa.com